

AUTHORS

Aleksandr Bugrovskii is a PhD candidate in the Department of Political Science and International Affairs at the HSE University, Saint Petersburg (Russia). His current research interests concern social policy, disability issues, NGOs, and interest groups' actions. He is the author of several articles on these topics.

Nikolai Goncharov completed his postgraduate studies at the Peter the Great Museum of Anthropology and Ethnography (Kunstkamera), Russian Academy of Sciences. He is currently a junior researcher in the Department of Siberian Ethnography at Kunstkamera. He is working on a dissertation on the practices of space usage by local people in northern Yakutia. Goncharov is a participant in the projects of the Russian Science Foundation "Energy of the Arctic and Siberia: The Use of Resources in the Context of Socioeconomic and Environmental Changes" (2018–2022) and "Food in the Russian Arctic: Resources, Technologies, and Innovations" (2019–2024). He is one of the authors of the collective monograph Energy of the Arctic and Siberia: The Use of Resources in the Context of Socioeconomic Changes (in Russian; 2020).

Nikolay Rudenko defended his PhD thesis at St. Petersburg State University (Russia) in 2015. Currently he is a research fellow at the Center for Science and Technology Studies at the European University at Saint Petersburg. He teaches in the joint master's program Technoscience and Innovation of the European University and ITMO University. His main research interests are science and technology studies and mobilities studies. Rudenko is a PI on the project "Autonomous Vehicles and Society: Interaction of Technologies, Socioeconomic Scenarios and Regulation in Radical Innovation" (Russian Science Foundation, 2020–2023). He has published in several Russian-language edited volumes, including The Adventures of Technology (2020), New Time, New Field: Changing the World of Qualitative Research and New Technologies (2021), City Networks. People. Technology. Authorities (2021).

Yerkebulan Sairambay received his PhD in sociology from the University of Cambridge in 2022. He is currently a research fellow at Suleyman Demirel University (Kaskelen, Kazakhstan). His current research explores political participation, new media, civil society, and democratization with a particular focus on the countries of postcommunist Europe and former Soviet Union. The results of Sairambay's research have been published in Central Asian Survey, Slavonica, Studies of Transition States and Societies, Human Affairs, Slovak Journal of Political Sciences, and Politics in Central Europe.